Derge meets the press

David R. Derge, approved Saturday as the new president of SIU, made his first public appearance at press conferences at the Student Center and at the studios of WSU-TV. Derge was reluctant to give direct answers to several questions because he said he needed time to study them more carefully. (Photos by Nelson G. Brooks)

President Derge noncommittal on U-Senate, sports

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's new president demonstrated at two meetings with the press and public Saturday that he is articulate and able to respond readily to questions fired at him by a sometimes less than friendly crowd.

David R. Derge, whose appointment as president was approved by the SIU Board of Trustees Saturday, said that he was unable to give direct answers to questions concerning powers of the University Senate veto, the Midwest Conference, intercollegiate athletics and other matters because he has not yet had time to study these questions fully.

He came out strongly in favor of equal opportunity regardless of race, sex or economic status.

He pledged that his administration would be an open one. He said he and his office would be readily accessible to everyone.

The 43-year-old Indiana University vice president is a husky-looking man with a thin mustache and graying hair. He has a strong voice that carried easily to every listener in the WSU-TV studio, where he was interviewed, and in the Mississippi Room where he met the public. He wears glasses with heavy black frames. For his first public visit to SIU, he wore a dark navy suit, navy and red-striped tie.

Derge appeared outwardly cool and calm throughout the questioning by newsmen, but a noticeable tremor in his hand indicated he felt some stress in being scrutinized and interrogated.

"This is something new for me," he was heard remarking later, when someone congratulated him for doing well in the press conference.

Before his afternoon meeting with the public—mostly students—questions were directed at Dr. Martin Van Brown, trustee from Carbondale, who introduced Derge to the group.

The questions centered around the controversy surrounding Derge's selection and whether Derge had been among those recommended to the Board by the Presidential Selection Advisory Committee.

Derge avoided the eyes of the crowd during this encounter. Brown said Derge was among those recommended by the council.

George Camille, student body president, came out with a statement Thursday condemning the Board for ignoring student concerns in selecting a president and said that it was not in the best interest of the University for Derge to become president.

At the Board meeting Saturday Camille said, "They've appointed him now. There's nothing we can do about it. We will work with him and cooperate with his administration as much as we can."

Armed with a briefcase containing various papers and five or six packs of cigarettes, Derge was asked if he was a chain smoker. "Oh, no," he said. "These have to last me the rest of the week!" But with a smoke in hand during most of his question and answer sessions, one could give an educated guess that for Derge, the work week begins on Sunday.

Derge described his appointment as president of SIU as the "most exciting and challenging opportunity of my career." He said his intention was to help move SIU "toward the excellence which all of us want and which the people of Illinois deserve."

He described in some detail an incident which occurred when he was acting president at Indiana University and which yielded a less than popular name for him among some students at Indiana.

Eckert joins Walker in statehouse race

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert Monday formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor as independent Democrat Dan Walker's running mate.

Eckert's formal announcement was made Monday morning in Springfield, but he also held a news conference Monday afternoon in Carbondale.

In a prepared statement, Eckert, 33, said in Carbondale, "I did not seek to join him (Walker) in his campaign nor did I know that he was considering asking me to do so." Digressing from his statement, he added, "I was really shocked."

Eckert said that at first he refused Walker's request, explaining that "my primary obligation was to the people of Carbondale." He added that he feels Carbondale's problems are particularly great at this time, and that running for higher office at first appeared to him as not keeping faith with the voters who elected him mayor.

Eckert said he changed his mind for several reasons. Among these is that he feels many of Carbondale's problems stem from "the lack of response in Springfield for the kinds of programs we are trying to introduce in Carbondale and Southern Illinois."

The mayor blasted both political parties as being "the private domain of the statemakers and the machine politicians." He said that Carbondale's problems will remain unsolved as long as state government and the political process are not responsive to the needs of the people.

While he is campaigning, Eckert said, he will take time away from his business before he takes time away from City Hall. Eckert is one of six partners in a family business, Eckert Orchards, Inc., Illinois' largest apple producer. Eckert said Councilman George Karnes has agreed to spend additional time at City Hall when he is needed. Karnes is mayor pro tem.

During a question-answer session, Eckert was asked where he expects to get contributions to his campaign.

"That's a good question," Eckert responded. "We could start right here today. I guess the money will just have to come from the people. I have no special interests willing to stick their necks out on my campaign."

Derge's grip leaves mark on greeters

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

There was just something about the man.

A kind of mystique. For some reason you couldn't help but feel confidence in him.

Those who shook hands with him found his grip strong, unyielding—like putting one's hand into a trap.

Maybe it was the way he was dressed. His dark blue, business suit along with his medium blue shirt and red and blue striped tie and black wing tips gave the impression he was a banker.

Or maybe it was the way he handled himself. His hands were neatly folded on a table as he sat talking. A Salem king-size cigarette protruded between two fingers. His silver mustache and gray hair were neatly trimmed and combed.

He could have been a lawyer or a stock market whiz.

Trustees confirm new SIU president

By David L. Mahan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The appointment of David R. Derge, executive vice president and dean for administration at Indiana University, to the presidency of SIU was made official Saturday by the Board of Trustees.

The 48-year-old president-elect received a standing ovation from most of the spectators at Saturday's meeting as he was introduced. In informal remarks, Derge said he is accepting the presidency "with great pleasure and humility."

As president, Derge will receive an annual salary of $66,000. His travel expenses and housing will also be provided, but it was not said whether Derge will occupy University House, now known as the SIU Conference Center. The Student Senate has passed a resolution calling for occupation of the million-dollar structure by Derge.

SIU President Robert G. Lauer will go back to the position he occupied when he was appointed acting chancellor in 1970—chairman of the Department of Economics. He will receive an annual salary of $24,000.

In presenting Derge to the audience, Trustee Ivan A. Elliott Jr., Carmi, said that SIU is like a family, "we don't always agree." He was referring to some dissension among faculty and students concerning Derge's appointment.

"You can't please everybody," Elliott said.

Elliott said that SIU is entering its third era with the leadership of Derge. A hundred years ago, SIU was "a sleepy normal school," he said. SIU's second era came with Delye W. Morris, an era of "expansion and growth." The era that Derge will lead SIU into will be one of "academic excellence and development of comprehensive education," Elliott said.

With the search for a president ended, the Board dissolved the Presidential Selection Advisory Board, an advisory committee of faculty, staff and students, and the Board Committee on Presidential Selection, headed by Elliott.

Elliott thanked the members of both committees for spending their time without compensation on the search for a president. He also praised the work of Richard Quintana, who was hired by the Board to find a president for SIU-Carbondale.

The Board also dissolved the SIU Decentralization Committee, whose work comes to an end with the reassignment of the system vice presidents. On Jan. 1, System Vice Presidents I.P. Brackett and Ralph Ruffner will become vice presidents of SIU-Carbondale and SIU-Edwardsville respectively. Their assignments will run until June 30, 1972. Personnel assigned to each system vice president will accompany them to their new assignments.

In other considerations, revised operating budget requests for 1972-73 totaling $60,000,500 and revised capital budget requests totaling some $2,700,000 for SIU-Carbondale were reported to the Board.

The operating budget request reflects an increase of 15.5 per cent above the current $52,711,000 appropriated for Carbondale.

Referring to the budget requests, Trustee Earl E. Walker, Harrisburg, said SIU must take a strong stand in presenting its requests to the Illinois Board of Higher Education. He added that his comment was "somewhat restrained" in what he would like to say about the IBHE, which has recommended approval of only $61 million of the combined Carbondale-Edwardsville requests of some $61 million.

The Board also changed the names of the Departments of Management and Accounting to the Departments of Administrative Sciences and Accountancy, respectively.

Additional Health Service fees approved by Board of Trustees

By Susan Miller
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Additional Health Service fees, to go into effect Jan. 3, were approved Saturday at the Board of Trustees meeting.

Robert Waldron, administrator for the Health Service, said the fees were necessary in order to break even or cut the deficit that is presently being incurred.

In presenting the proposed fees to the Board, President Lauer noted that some of the fees requiring approval had already been instituted. Those fees were—$2.50 ambulance service charge which was limited to within a 25-mile radius. Waldron said formerly the Health Service had made transfers to other hospitals not in the Southern Illinois area but this practice has been discontinued.

Infirmity room charges after the tenth day. Those without a paid activity fee statement will pay from the first day on.

After hours use of the emergency room or X-ray and Laboratory technicians, will be assessed a $5 fee.

Those fees which have not been started yet are:

—Emergency room charge of $3 at all times

—Papanicolaou smears will cost $3

—X-ray charges of $5 at all times.

These are students charges. Anyone else admitted to the Health Service will be charged the community rate. All funds acquired through the additional fees collected will be deposited in the "Student Medical Benefit Fund" and will be used to help defray the cost of the services for which the charge was assessed.

Waldron said that the use of additional fees for individual services will take the burden of the Health Service deficit off all students and place it on the users only.

In addition to the new fees segments of the Health Service will be closed over breaks, he said. During the Christmas break the Health Service will discontinue its emergency room service in the evenings and on weekends with the clinic break hours being from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Both Fridays during the Christmas break are University holidays and only emergency service will be offered from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The ambulance service will also discontinue after clinic hours.

The Health Service will be totally shut down Dec. 25, 26 and Jan. 1. The Minor Care Clinic will also be completely closed over this and all breaks. It will reopen for Winter quarter on Jan. 3 at 8:30 a.m. Full Health Service operations will resume for the Emergency room at 8 a.m. on Sunday Jan. 2.

Waldron said the personnel cut is due to the infrequent use the Health Service gets during this period. "Sometimes we only have two or three patients in the course of one 24 hour day," he said.

Waldron estimated that a possible $50,000 in additional revenue may be brought in with the new fees. Last year the deficit was $58,000, he said.

He explained that combined with limited break use, additional fees and tightened use of the facilities that this "should assist in allowing the Health Service to break even."

Derge silent on Senate veto

In 1960, he said, Indiana was faced with great financial problems which required additional funding. A hike in tuition was the university's only recourse, he said.

But this was received with rage from Indiana students who found their tuition rising from $195 to $325 a semester and the students called a 10-day boycott of classes. Derge said much discussion took place between university administrators and the students during this time. But one group of students wasn't satisfied with the results of the discussions, he said, and locked a group of administrators in their offices and threatened to hold them captive until the Indiana governing board met with them to rescind the tuition increase.

Derge explained that he could either order the use of force to disperse the students, risking violence, injuries and possible loss of life, or he could obtain an injunction against the students. He chose the latter method, he said, and that cinched his reputation as a hardliner in the eyes of students.

"I am a hardliner if being a hardliner means going after an injunction against people who are holding others against their will. But that is a very strange definition," he said.

Derge said he hoped that students would have a strong input in shaping the teaching program at SIU and guaranteed that students will have the opportunity to create change in academic programs.

He declined to outline his position on the Midwest Conference and intercollegiate athletics, but said he is conditionally in favor of athletics.

On the subject of women's rights, Derge said he feels that "American universities have behaved very badly toward women in the past."

Commenting on a report by the Committee of the American Association of University Professors on the status of women at Indiana University, Derge said inequities were being corrected there and that if he found inequities at SIU he would "move everything I could to correct those inequities."

Derge failed to specify whether he would make any changes in the administrative framework of the campus. He did say he would recommend a careful review of the university's priorities and administrative structure.

Before leaving his afternoon meeting at the Student Center, Derge emphasized that while he couldn't be specific on some issues at this time he could definitely say that his administration would be open and accessible.

Panel to seek blast cause

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken announced Monday the formation of an 18-member panel to probe for the cause of an explosion that took the lives of 21 men working on a water tunnel Saturday.

Milliken, visiting the scene of the explosion, said the committee is composed of representatives of labor unions, federal and state departments of labor, the state health department, contractors and insurance carriers.

Milliken observed the tunnel from ground level. The shaft is 10 feet in diameter and goes down 165 feet.

After looking the scene over and conferring with investigators, the governor returned to the state capital at Lansing with bottles of air samples for analysis by the state health department.

As authorities began looking for the cause of the late Saturday blast, a former safety inspector who worked at the tunnel site—although he said he never worked in the main tunnel—charged that "the whole project was full of negligence."

Roger Reinhold, 36, of nearby Mount Clemens, said serious safety violations were permitted on the various jobs.

New president inspires trust, reporter says

Instead he is a university president-elect.

David R. Derge, SIU's new president, leaned back in his chair, pulling at the lapels of his suit. He was at his first public meeting at SIU.

There were about 20 people in the Mississippi Room Saturday. They were at no loss for questions for Derge.

"What do you think of the University Senate's veto power?"

"Why do you want to be president?"

"What are your goals for SIU?"

These were some of the questions David Derge tried to answer. As he answered he would play around with a black pen or his cigarette lighter. He must have smoked four cigarettes.

All too soon the time was used up. Derge had a telephone interview to make. Grabbing his brown attache case bearing a Pan American airlines decal, he strode out of the room.

"Maybe he is just what we need at this time, with the legislature and everything," said one student.

"He is very articulate," a female student responded.

Another student just shrugged his shoulders.

David R. Derge, with his vice-like grip, had come to Sahakland.

Eckert to team with Dan Walker

Eckert will oppose Neil Hartigan, 33, a Democratic party committeeman in Chicago's 4th ward. Hartigan, along with Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, were slated by the party organization last week. Walker refused to appear before the slatemakers, preferring to challenge the party regulars in the primary. Until now, Eckert has not registered with either party, but his family is strongly Republican.

The mayor said he will keep his post at City Hall, at least through the March primary, when he will decide whether or not to resign.

Trustees deny Allen tenure; cite divisiveness as reason

By Pat Nussanan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In a 3 to 2 decision, the Board of Trustees Saturday voted down a resolution to give tenure to Douglas M. Allen, assistant professor of philosophy.

The resolution, recommended by President Robert G. Laver, would have rescinded the Nov. 26, 1970, action which first denied tenure to the controversial opponent of the Center for Vietnamese Studies.

Laver, in his address to the Board, revised his earlier opinion that Allen should be denied tenure on the basis of slow work on his dissertation.

"There is no question in my mind," Laver said, "but that the material we received indicated clearly that Douglas Allen as a classroom teacher and researcher is well above average."

Laver told the Board that Allen had been seriously ill during one year of his doctoral work and had eventually produced an unusually fine dissertation, which has already received recognition from his colleagues outside the University.

"In my experience, I have never, since I have been chancellor and then president, heard of any charges against his classroom behavior," Laver said.

"And the evidence indicates that he has an excellent background in research," he said.

Laver pointed out that Allen had published a great many scholarly articles and is in the process of having a book published.

"Few faculty members can cite more within their first two years in the University," said Laver.

Any negative decision on the question of Allen's tenure, Laver added, must be based on something outside the academic sphere.

The consequences of such a decision, he commented, could be action by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) or recourse to the courts by Allen.

"This should not be considered as a threat by Mr. Allen," he added.

New trustee W. Victor Rouse, who introduced the tenure resolution, urged the Board to approve the measure, calling Allen "a credit to the University."

"It would be a serious error," Rouse said, "to issue a condemnation judgment on any basis except academic competence."

Trustee Earl E. Walker, seconding the motion, cited Allen as having outstanding qualities in teaching and stimulating students to learn and think.

"I am unable to find any objection that would support a denial of tenure to Dr. Allen," Walker said.

Ivan Elliott, an opponent to the resolution, said that in an institution that wants to build excellence, tenure is the method of deciding whether or not a person contributes to the University.

Elliott also mentioned that there had been conflicting recommendations concerning Allen and that it is difficult "to deal with the controversial background that Mr. Douglas Allen has."

"It is certainly a fact," Elliott added, "that he is a divisive factor on this campus. How freedom of speech is used is also important."

When the vote finally came it was Walker and Rouse for tenure, Elliott, Harold Fischer and Martin Van Brown against.

The three trustees opposed to tenure all cited Allen's "divisiveness" as a reason for the vote.

"He's a very divisive man," Brown said after the meeting, "a divisive force on this campus."

"I feel it was the way Mr. Allen conducted himself academically, socially and publicly," added Fischer, "let's not break it up."

After the meeting Allen commented that the American Civil Liberties Union had already taken up his case and suit will probably be filed shortly.

The end of academic freedom?

Academic freedom at SIU was destroyed Saturday by three members of its own Board of Trustees.

By name they are Ivan Elliott, Harold Fischer and Martin Van Brown. And Saturday the three voted down a resolution giving tenure to controversial philosophy instructor Douglas M. Allen.

The reason? Well, according to Dr. Brown, he considers Dr. Allen "a very devious man—a devious force on campus."

Elliott, Fischer and Brown apparently haven't heard, but tenure in reputable universities is awarded on the basis of teaching and research rather than on the man's degree of "deviousness."

President Robert G. Lyster had briefed the Board on the little-known fact that Allen is an outstanding classroom teacher and a much-published researcher.

The three Board members didn't seem impressed. They were too busy meditating on Allen's "deviousness," i.e., that his political philosophy is different from Elliott's, Fischer's and Brown's.

It is certainly not a matter of freedom of speech, according to them. As Elliott pointed out: "How freedom of speech is used is also important."

Which is an interesting revision of the First Amendment.

As a staff writer for the Daily Egyptian I have had contact with Dr. Allen almost constantly since the beginning of this school year, as well as before that as a correspondent for another publication.

During that time Dr. Allen has uttered many unpopular sentiments. Some of his statements were considered inaccurate or ill-considered by some members of the University community.

But never have his words or actions been "devisive," if in that, the three mean Allen incited to violence.

Such actions would be more repugnant to Dr. Allen than they apparently are to some members of the Board. Dr. Allen is a fervent pacifist.

His views are those of a private citizen. During my own classroom experience with Allen, he did not even mention any so-called "radical sentiments."

As a reporter, I am not supporting Dr. Allen's stands in regard to the Center for Vietnamese Studies or any other subject.

I am supporting Dr. Allen's right to differ in political philosophy from three senior members of the Board of Trustees, who seem to believe that everyone on the SIU campus should think their way.

In the end, Mr. Elliott, Mr. Fischer and Dr. Brown may find that they are a lot more "devisive" than Dr. Allen.

A behind-the-scenes look at slatemaking

In a small room tucked within the heart of a mighty hotel, a small group of men plotted the political future of the great and noble state of Illinois, better known as the land of E. Pluribus Daley.

As the final session of the slatemaking committee (that auspicious group which decides who is to run for political positions) was to get started, a small wiry man is asking Mayor Daley, better known as Papa Boss, "Do you think a Polack, er, person of Polish ancestry could ever hope to be a U.S. senator?"

Papa took this moment to stand up (as is his style) and remind everyone that "In this great city and state of mine, anyone, no matter how removed from Ireland they might be, can rise to greatness—to the highest position of the land, maybe even mayor of Chicago. Why, look what we've done for Picasso!"

Applause shook the room, and someone tried to nominate Picasso. But Papa said that it was impossible because the Spanish vote wasn't strong enough.

With that taken care of for the moment, the matter of slating someone as Secretary of State came to hand.

One man, who wore buttons which read "Black Panthers are Pussycats" and "Cool Hand Hanrahan," wanted to nominate Thom McAn.

"I feel," said the button man, "that a person like Mr. McAn would be the logical successor to the late Paul Powell. Who else could have access to such a large number of shoe boxes?"

In a fit of fatherly rage, Papa quickly ushered the man out of the room, mumbling something to himself about a man has a right to provide for his retirement.

After this bit of bravado, the time came for the group to decide on someone to run for governor.

First to be considered was a man known as Simon.

A gentleman of the slatemaking group, who was obviously thinking of the youth vote said, "I think Simon is the perfect choice. Some of the younger voters might think he is the partner of Art Garfunkel."

Papa nodded wisely, trying to think what ethnic group a Garfunkel might be in, and how many votes it would bring in.

Moving right along, the next person to be considered was a man who had become famous for his walks across the state—a valuable criteria for judging the worth of a candidate. Obviously, his name was Walker.

A man, who was rumored to be related to the person who persuaded Mrs. O'Leary not to sell her cow, said, "Think of the money Walker could save our campaign fund on car and airplane expenses. Besides, with his aversion to mechanical means of traveling, he has the strongest anti-pollution position of anyone."

But everyone knew deep in their hearts that it was not to be the man with the strong feet; for he had refused to help color the river green on St. Patrick's day and thus brought on the disfavor of Papa Boss.

With this thought, the meeting settled down. But the members of the group squirmed in orgasmic anticipation, looking to Papa for the final word of who was to be blessed.

But Papa was deep in thought, wondering what ethnic advantages there would be to a Simon and Garfunkel slate, with Trini Lopez singing the campaign songs, and a promise of Polish sausage in every pot.

The innocent bystander

No disappointments with disconnected Democrats

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Congress and big business have teamed up once again to deal more dastardly blows to the most pitiable pocket of poverty in America. I am speaking, of course, of the Democratic Party.

First Congress decides the Democrats can't have that $20 million in tax money with which they were hoping to win the Presidency next year.

On top of that, the phone company says it won't install any phones at the Democratic Convention in Miami Beach unless the Democrats pungle up a $2 million deposit—mainly because there's still a little old phone bill of $1.5 million kicking around from '68.

Naturally, I hurried over to the Democratic National Committee to offer my condolences to my friend Nattersby, who is in charge of Strategy, Fund-Raising and Cleaning the Office Coffee Pot.

To my amazement I found him jubilant—a little emaciated but definitely jubilant.

"Pull yourself together, Nattersby," I said sternly. "The privation has driven you crackers."

"Have you heard the glorious news!" he cried. "They're taking out all our phones. The Presidential candidate we nominate at Miami Beach won't have a phone to his name."

"Stop babbling, Nattersby," I said, "and face this disaster like a man."

"Oh, we thought of it as a disaster at first," he said. "But have you ever considered what kind of phone calls a Presidential candidate gets? Invitations from the Gaviota Garden Club to judge their Annual Coreopsis Contest. Requests for an endorsement from the local Mafioso running for sheriff. Demands from the press that the candidate take a clear-cut stand, which, if he takes it, will alienate half the country."

"So, you see, every time a candidate picks up a phone, he offends somebody. Not having a phone will give our man a tremendous advantage."

"By George, Nattersby," I said, "you've got a point."

"And that's not all," he said, a clever look in his eye. "Wait till the airlines get wind of what the phone company's done. Hoo-boy, the money we owe the airlines! They'll never sell our candidate a ticket to anywhere."

"But then he can't campaign!"

"Exactly. No disappointing airport crowds. No half-filled auditoriums. Our candidate will make no embarrassing bloopers because he'll make no speeches. It puts him way ahead."

"Then you'll rely solely on newspaper ads and television spots?"

"Who can afford them? We're $9.3 million in debt already and they want cash in advance."

"But, Nattersby," I said, "the public won't even know who your candidate is."

"Yes," he said, he said, happily rubbing his hands. "There's that, too."

After considerable thought, I feel Nattersby's right: it doesn't matter whom the Democrats nominate next year. Nobody's going to vote for him anyway.

When a President's been in office four years, nobody ever votes for his opponent. In this great land of ours, a President is re-elected solely on the basis whether or not less than half the people vote against him.

EDITORIALS—The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials—labeled Opinion—are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authenticity of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Letters to the editor

Analysis questioned

To the Daily Egyptian:

SIU students have taken to the streets many times in the past three years. This has caused a furor among Carbondale and University officials. Here are the reasons:

1. SIU provides zilch in the way of top drawer entertainment. Again this quarter the Arena will witness the showing of mediocre talents. Where are the Moody Blues, Black Sabbath, Santana, Led Zeppelin, Mountain, Grand Funk, Jethro Tull, Steppenwolf, etc.? Why can't a school of over 20,000 students have good entertainment?

2. Carbondale theatres are great at bringing last year's academy award winners to this years screen. Even students get tired of skin flicks and B-films.

3. Local radio and television programming is pathetic. Unless the wind blows WLS towards Carbondale there isn't anything worth listening to. WCIL is fine if you're 40-years-old. Did you ever try to watch TV after midnight?

4. There is very little in the way of available recreation for the typical student. It is a long walk to Giant City or St. Louis.

5. After spending all week in class and dorm rooms, students want out, regardless of how much schoolwork they have piled up. The insipid administrator who said the street crowds were the fault of lax teaching should be sent on permanent sabbatical.

6. Half of the student body at SIU is under the age of 21. The weekend issues of the Daily Egyptian are filled with tavern and liquor store ads. This is adding fuel to the fire.

7. The male-female ratio is a serious problem at SIU. With one-third of the student body being girls (and half of them at home looking at pictures of their hometown sweethearts,) what are the chances for Gus Bode?

8. Visitation rules and dorm restrictions challenge the students' freedom. This limits the capacity of dorm rooms to provide entertainment.

9. The policemen that line the streets with 20 lbs. of artillery hanging from their waists serve more harm than good.

So after Mary Jane has been taken out and the poker cards have been worn down, students will take to the streets. What they find there is up to city, state, and University officials. The results will reflect the kind of job they have done. Until then, Illinois St. will have its hands full.

Overhaul wanted

To the Daily Egyptian:

After being mistreated at the Health Service, I have come to the conclusion that the Health Service is of absolutely no use to sick people at the University. I went to the Health Service and was diagnosed, after having a casual conversation with one of the doctors. I was told to go to bed. After getting sicker and sicker, I returned to the Health Service, only to see a friendly but totally useless nurse who again misdiagnosed me after a short chat.

I finally went home to Chicago and was found to have strep throat and mono: all the doctor had to do was to look at my throat. Neither the doctor nor the nurse at the Health Service even bothered to examine me in any way, despite my obvious symptoms. I find the Health Service incompetent, and useless to anyone ill. I feel that this, along with many other examples of ineptness, should be enough for the University to do a thorough overhaul of the Health Service.

Bike overkill

To the Daily Egyptian:

As an avid bike rider (and quasi-anarchist, I admit) may I ask whether it is necessary to regulate the (1) registration, (2) equipment, (3) operation, (4) parking, (5) impounding, and (6) fining of bicycles and bicyclists?

How about color? Perhaps standards should be worked out too for tire-wear and hand signals.

The point is, bicycling is a rather innocent pastime. Let's correct necessary problems regarding bikes on campus, but let's not engage in regulatory overkill. I say avoid writing a comprehensive Justinian Code on the subject—simply tackle specific problems with specific actions. In a university, particularly, the aim should be minimal interference with daily life and not maximum.

A new system

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Dec. 3, 1971, the Daily Egyptian published an article by Bernard Whalen concerning a new staff organization plan that I submitted to the office of the Dean of Off Campus Students for the 1972-73 year.

The news article indicated that I think very poorly of resident fellows and resident counselors and this is not true. I have held each of those positions and know they are very useful positions in a residence hall. In addition, I feel that the staff of Wilson Hall, resident counselors and resident fellows, are the best we have ever had.

The competency of the present staff, however, does not negate the need for a new system that provides more financial rewards for the resident fellow and continues quality services for the Wilson Hall residents. This is what I hope to provide with a new system.

I have apologized to the staff for what appeared to be a "low blow." I have informed the staff and the residents that I have complete trust in the ability of the staff and I also want their friends outside of Wilson Hall to know that the article did not reflect my feelings about them.

What relates?

To the Daily Egyptian:

It is disturbing to any thinking American citizen to read a letter such as the one submitted by an SIU senior in rebuttal to Dr. Lee Moorehead's remarks regarding the lack of respect shown Ambassador Bohlen's address. It is even more distressing to read that the respondent is a senior in journalism!

Many years ago it was my privilege to visit Ambassador Bohlen and his family in his home. I am convinced that he is a great and devoted American. Maybe I am wrong in my appraisal because I now read that a senior in journalism very much, "doubts it a lot as a matter of fact," that Ambassador Bohlen is "one of America's greatest statesmen."

How very humiliating to a great University to have one of its seniors state: "Mr. Bohlen did not relate to the SIU student at all." I doubt this. Anyone who knows what Ambassador Bohlen has stood for over his long and illustrious career would know that he relates very much to the young people of the world.

In the same issue of the Daily Egyptian there appeared an article stating that "Rowdy fans doom free films at Davis." Complaints were made to the Student Activities Office concerning alcoholic beverages, marijuana, dogs, smoking and persons sitting in the aisles and wandering about. Future films have been cancelled.

My question is, "what does the SIU student relate to?" Of course, Dr. Moorehead and Doug Whitley are concerned only with a relatively small percentage of students that do not relate to anything but unfortunately interfere with those who try.

Faculty Council tackles pass-fail system

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A series of proposals concerning the pass-fail grade system will be presented at the 1:30 meeting of the Faculty Council Tuesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

The Undergraduate Education Policy Joint Standing Committee of the University Senate will propose 10 to 12 categories concerning the pass-fail system.

James Thorpe, chairman of the committee, said Monday she would prefer to let the council see the recommendations and proposals before they are released to the public.

The pass-fail idea was first offered by Robert W. MacVicar, vice president for academic affairs in the fall of 1966. At that time the Faculty Council discussed the matter rather extensively but dropped it in face of numerous problems.

The chief objection raised in the council was that the system was difficult to administer. Since not all the students in a class are enrolled for pass-fail grades, the instructor's paper work multiplies.

Another problem is the case of a change of major. Supposing a student took courses in a department as electives on a pass-fail basis, then changed his mind to count them toward his major. The whole evaluative process goes awry, the argument went.

Further, it was argued that since anything above D would count as "pass," the courses would be used as a crutch for marginal students.

Although these arguments existed, David E. Christensen, assistant dean of arts and sciences, prepared a plan for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The system started fall quarter of 1968.

The guidelines Christensen established were:

—An overall grade point of 3.25 or higher would be needed.

—36 hours of credit could be used towards graduation requirements.

—Credits would be applicable only to elective courses.

—If a student changed majors and wanted to use the grade-in his major, an agreement would have to be worked out with the new department in which the grade would be counted towards graduation but not in the grade point average.

And so the system was started in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. By October, 1969, the program was being offered by 25 departments.

When SIU was closed in May, 1970, by student riots the decision was made to give only pass-fail grades by most departments. Both students and faculty wondered what a permanent pass-fail system would be like. The answers were provided by John Mercer, a professor in the Department of Cinema and Photography.

It seems that Mercer had some contact with a pass-fail system at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

It wasn't too surprising that the pass-fail question once again came to the Faculty Council in September, 1970. At that time, Chancellor Laver referred the question to James B. Miller, chairman of the Faculty Council.

The question of pass-fail was referred to the Admissions and Undergraduate Requirement Committee of the council where it remained until August, 1971.

At the Aug. 10 meeting a resolution was passed that extended the pass-fail experiment to the end of the 1971-72 academic year. It also assigned that the data of this experiment be referred to the Joint Standing Committee on Undergraduate Educational Policy.

The committee was assigned to evaluate the pass-fail experiment and make a report including recommendations to the Faculty Council by the end of Fall quarter.

Since that time, the committee has held regular meetings to study the question.

"We received about 20 people who testified in person and numerous written responses," said Thorpe.

Responses were received from the faculty, students and the administration.

The members of the committee are Harry Amos, professor of history; Robert Griffin, assistant professor in English; Chester Johnston, assistant professor at the Vocational Technical Institute; Keith Sanders, assistant professor in speech; Thorpe, associate professor in physical education; Robert McGrath, registrar; Jerre Pfaff, assistant director of admissions and Bill Schramm, a sophomore in business.

Thorpe said two more students should be on the committee, however all attempts to get the additional student representation since September have failed.

Sculpture, mural contest announced to decorate new wing of Center

A sculpture and mural contest for art work in the new wing of the Student Center has been announced by Herbert Fink, director of the School of Art.

The competition has monetary backing from the original construction contract. An allowance of $17,500, in the contract, for art work, will be used to contract SIU students to do the work instead of non-University people. Clarence Dougherty, director of the Student Center, said, "Any payment will be for work that is done," Dougherty said.

"The students are invited to submit proposals for either sculptures or murals," Dougherty said. "From these proposals maybe four works will be selected, and the students who did these works will be asked to do a mock-up of their ideas. From these the final choices will be made," Dougherty said.

The sculpture will be placed in the International Lounge and the mural placed in the corridor near the south entrance, according to Dougherty.

Others that worked to set up this competition included Elvert Johnston, curator of University Galleries, Thomas Walsh, assistant professor in the School of Art, other art faculty and students and student representatives who are members of the Student Center Board.

A specifications sheet compiled by Johnston, will be available at the School of Art office in the Allyn Building, according to Fink.

The competition is open to all SIU students.

Edwardsville man found dead in trunk of his car

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP) — The body of William S. Wells, an auto insurance investigator, was found in the trunk of his car Monday, police said.

Wells, 41, of Edwardsville, had been missing since Friday night and family members said he had received telephone calls threatening his life.

Wells worked for the MFA Insurance Co. at its Creve Coeur, Mo., office and had taken part in investigations of auto theft rings in the St. Louis area.

He was last seen at a tavern in Glen Carbon, Ill., and his blood-stained eyeglasses were found on the parking lot. Police said Wells was shot in the head.

Police said they are investigating the possibility that Wells' death might be connected with the apparent suicide last month of Illinois State trooper Frederick Wheeler of Edwardsville. Police said Wheeler shot himself after he had been stopped in Edwardsville for driving erratically.

Campus briefs

D.I. Sugarman, a graduate student in chemistry, recently had two papers published in international journals. One of these, entitled "Stereochemistry of the Diastereomeric 2,2'-Bis(dimethylaminomethyl)biferrocenyls," reported an unequivocal solution to a structural question remaining in these biferrocenyls. The other, a review article, "The Two Faces of D and L Nomenclature," criticized the use of this nomenclature in modern organic chemistry. Sam Tucker was a co-author on this latter paper. Prof. D.W. Slocum was a co-author of both papers.

Used books, magazines and periodicals are wanted by Theta Sigma Phi sorority for its annual winter quarter book sale. The women's journalism sorority is being assisted in this year's collection by the Dames Club, which is composed of student wives. Proceeds of the sale will be used for charitable work as well as for sorority activities.

Persons wishing to contribute books or magazines of any kind on any subject may call the Theta Sigma Phi faculty adviser, Mrs. Jane Delaney, at the SIU journalism advisement office, 536-3361, or write Box 36, SIU School of Journalism. The books will be picked up.

Dean Charles H. Hindersman of the School of Business attended a dean's seminar of the American Association of Collegiate School of Business in Phoenix, Ariz. Hindersman said talks revealed many more women will be entering schools of business—heretofore primarily a man's field—as a result of the current movement for equality status to which much of industry is starting to respond. He said that a prolonged tight job market for college graduates was predicted, whatever the economy does.

Trip set for winter break

The Egyptian Divers Club will sponsor a trip to the Florida Keys during winter quarter break.

The purpose of the trip, according to Perry McIntosh, club president, "is to give people a chance to dive in the ocean and be aware of the complex diversity of underwater marine life, in addition to its recreational aspects."

The trip is open to all persons interested. The club plans to camp in Big Pine Key, Key West.

Those persons wishing to scuba dive must be certified. Although, if one wishes to snorkel no certificate is needed. According to McIntosh, most spear fishing is done in this fashion rather than scuba diving.

McIntosh said that the cost of the trip should be approximately $168. Those persons interested in the trip or learning how to scuba dive should attend the next club meeting at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 10 in 111A Technology Building or contact McIntosh at 540-9128.

Pay raise for TAs coming next term, it's retroactive

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A possible solution was presented at Friday's Graduate Student Council meeting concerning the question of graduate pay raises and altered contracts.

According to Ted Lindberg, a member of the Committee on Graduate Student Employment, pay raises will be given retroactively from Nov. 15. The increases are to be included in the January paychecks.

"We still haven't gotten clarification of raises during the freeze," Lindberg said. He said a letter had been received from the Internal Revenue Service in reply to T. Richard Mager, SIU legal counsel.

Mager asked the IRS to define what constitutes an agreement.

There had been some dispute over whether the graduate students had an agreement which was unilaterally altered by the University.

The IRS letter still does not tell us what constitutes an agreement," Lindberg said. "It does tell us we will not get our raises for those two months during the freeze."

Lindberg said the amount of money involved would vary from $30 to $50 per contract.

In other action, the council approved a resolution granting $103 to finance the first edition of a journal entitled "Theater Now."

The journal would deal in the field of communications, with special emphasis on the cultural aspects of the community. In addition, articles concerning the problems faced by graduate students would be included. The journal would be published semi-annually.

The council also heard a report from George Camille, student body president, and Edward Hammond, assistant to the president for student relations, on the status of graduate student activity fees.

Both Camille and Hammond said that a plan had been arranged for the 1971-72 fiscal year under which the GSC would be able to control the activity fees. A change in the plan occurred when President Nixon issued the wage-price freeze.

The plan was arranged for an increase in graduate student fees plus control of the excess funds which were not allocated. When the freeze came, the funds could not be increased. As a result, there were only limited funds for the GSC to administer.

U-Senate to discuss intercollegiate athletic committee nominations

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The selection of members for the newly formed standing committee on men's intercollegiate athletics will be a chief topic at a meeting of the Executive committee of the University Senate at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

David Kenney, president of the senate and chairman of the new committee, said Monday that the committee had received the approval of Robert G. Layer. Layer's approval was necessary because the previous intercollegiate committee was a presidential one.

"We have asked all sections for nominations to the committee," Kenney said. "But we won't have them all for the meeting. We will just try to discuss the ones we have."

According to a resolution passed at the Dec. 6 meeting, the new committee will include four faculty members, four students, one staff member, three administration members and one alumnus as voting members. Non-voting committee members would be the head of intercollegiate athletics, the dean of the College of Education and one alumnus.

Kenney said the new athletic committee would consider whether SIU should continue in the Midwestern Conference.

"We will ask the committee for its recommendation and rationale concerning SIU involvement in the conference," Kenney said.

Besides the intercollegiate committee, the Executive Committee will set the agenda for the Jan. 10 senate meeting and discuss appointments to senate committees.

"There is a lack of student representation on certain committees due to students who did not return in September," Kenney said.

IBHE to release program priorities list Wednesday

The Illinois Board of Higher Education is expected to make public its program priorities for the 1973 fiscal year operating budget review, it was reported Monday.

Ken Midkiff, chairman of the Student Advisory Committee (SAC) to the IBHE, said the IBHE will announce its priorities Wednesday.

Midkiff, SIU graduate student representative to the SAC said IBHE staff members revealed the IBHE's plans to the SAC at its monthly meeting this weekend at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

The IBHE staff sought the SAC's reactions to the programs that the board considered to be of high and low priority as far as state funding for operating budgets are concerned, Midkiff said.

With a few exceptions Midkiff said the SAC approved of the IBHE's list. However, he did not give any indication as to what was on the list.

Man dies after home invaded

CHICAGO AP — A North Side man collapsed and died Monday moments after a Chicago patrolman, off duty, forcibly entered his apartment, authorities said.

Police said that Harry Weiner, 64, apparently suffered a heart attack.

The patrolman, John Malloy, 22, was suspended after he refused an order by police officials to explain his actions. Malloy also was charged with criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct. He was off duty at the time.

Sgt. Joseph Dileonardi said Malloy first told officials he was chasing a suspect but after conferring with his attorney refused to give any further statement.

Weiner was sitting up with his wife, Dileonardi said, when Malloy apparently forced the door open by kicking it.

Pairings announced for playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's divisional playoffs will open at 1 p.m. (EST) Saturday, Dec. 26, at Minnesota with the Vikings playing host to the champions of the American Conference's Eastern Division, either Dallas or Washington.

Pairings for the playoffs, scheduled Dec. 25 and Dec. 26, were announced Monday by Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL.

Since three of the six divisional titles are still undecided, as are both of the extra qualifiers, the representative teams in most cases are still indefinite.

Two games will be played each of the two days and will be televised nationally but blacked out in the areas involved. American Conference games will be televised by NBC, the National Conference games by CBS.

Playoff winners will meet Jan. 2 to determine Conference championships, with the survivors meeting in the Super Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 16.

Starting times of the doubleheader on each day will be 1 p.m. (EST) and 4 p.m. (EST), regardless of the site.

Here is the playoff schedule:

SATURDAY, DEC. 25
1 p.m. EST-NFC at Minnesota: NFC Eastern champion Dallas 10-3 or Washington 8-11 vs. NFC Central champion (Minnesota 10-3), unless the NFC qualifier is a Western team in which case the fourth qualifier Los Angeles 7-4-1 or San Francisco 8-5 would be Minnesota's foe. CBS will televise.

4 p.m. EST-AFC at Kansas City: AFC Eastern champion (Baltimore 10-3 or Miami 9-3-1) vs. AFC Western champion (Kansas City 9-3-1). NBC will televise.

SUNDAY, DEC. 26
1 p.m. EST-AFC at Cleveland: AFC fourth qualifier (Baltimore 10-3 or Miami 9-3-1) vs. AFC Central champion (Cleveland 8-5). NBC will televise.

4 p.m. EST-NFC at Los Angeles or San Francisco: NFC fourth qualifier (Dallas, Washington, Los Angeles or San Francisco) vs. NFC Western champion (Los Angeles or San Francisco) unless the fourth NFC qualifier is from the West. In this case, the Eastern champion (Dallas or Washington) will play the Western champion (Los Angeles or San Francisco) and the fourth qualifier will meet Minnesota in the first game. Dec. 25 CBS will televise.

Some of the contingencies were to be erased by the Monday night game involving the Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Rams. A Washington victory or tie clinches a playoff spot for the Redskins.

A loss for the Redskins does not eliminate them from the playoffs but does clinch the Eastern title for Dallas.

A Los Angeles victory leaves the NFC Western title and fourth qualifying spot wide open going into Sunday's final games. A loss or a tie does not eliminate the Rams from a Western title chance.

Three teams have clinched divisional titles. They are Cleveland, AFC Central; Kansas City, AFC West; and Minnesota, NFC Central. Baltimore and Miami, vying for the AFC East crown, both have assured themselves of playoff spots, with the team that fails to take the championship qualifying on its record.

The Dallas Cowboys have clinched a playoff berth. Should the Cowboys be beaten out by Washington for the NFC East title, they would become the fourth qualifier on their record.

Finding opponents tough for Delaware

NEWARK, Del. (AP) — You wouldn't think a football team which has a 36-6 record while winning four consecutive NCAA College Division Eastern championships, the latest an astonishing 72-22 rout of C.W. Post in the Boardwalk Bowl, would have many problems.

"No one wants to play us," complains Coach Tubby Raymond.

"Colgate and Holy Cross refuse to play us and Rutgers is dropping us after 1973," echoes Dave Nelson, the athletic director and Raymond's predecessor who helped build Delaware into a small college power. "Over the years, at one time or another, we've approached all the Ivy League teams, but they won't play us, either."

Part of the problem is that Delaware is classified in the NCAA College Division and ECAC Division II and what division I school wants to get walloped by a small college team, even if it is the champion.

Another part is some of Delaware's lopsided victories in recent seasons—Boston University 54-0 and 51-19; Rutgers 48-7, 34-21 and 44-0; Bucknell 48-0, 42-0 and 49-21; New Hampshire 40-7 and 53-12.

Lafayette 49-22 and 42-14; Lafayette 49-0; Gettysburg 53-0.

To be classed with the big boys in the NCAA's University Division, a team must play at least half of its games against other major teams. This past season Delaware played three.

To move up to the ECAC's Division I, a team only has to apply and then be accepted by the executive council. But, says Nelson, "Our feeling is that unless we play half of our games against Division I teams, there's no sense being in that division." Delaware played four Division I teams this year, beating Villanova, Rutgers and Boston University and losing to Temple 32-27.

So there you have Delaware's problem: They don't want to move up to a major classification unless the schedule is at least 50 per cent major, but the major teams in the East—forget the Penn States, the Syracuse, the military academies—won't schedule them.

And every time the Blue Hens win big, as they did Saturday against C.W. Post in the Boardwalk Bowl, a hue and cry arises that Delaware should be in a higher division.

Mental attitude called key to Los Angeles win streak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Sharman gets the credit for preparing the Los Angeles Lakers physically, but his players say the mental preparation was more important.

The Lakers go after their 22nd consecutive victory Tuesday night in Portland, hoping against an emotional letdown after their record-breaking, 104-95 victory Sunday night over Atlanta. In the wake of that triumph, praise and champagne flowed for the first-year coach who has made the Laker players feel like winners.

"The main reason we're winning is that we're moving the ball, hitting the open man, playing defense," said sophomore forward Jim McMillan. "This is truly a team, not a group of individuals."

"This team runs like Boston did a few years ago. Each man knows what his job is and he does it, but more than that, we know we can beat anybody."

The players admit Sharman's preseason schedule was rigorous, with two workouts a day not uncommon. But the extra conditioning may have provided the last-minute spark that gave Los Angeles its 21st victory. The Hawks had closed to within a point with one minute to play. In came Gail Goodrich, who had been given a fourth-period breather and his pass to Wil Chamberlain under the bucket led to a dunk shot and a three-point lead with 30 seconds left.

"Yes, I definitely think we have won many games during the streak on our conditioning," said Sharman. "They've worked hard and now it's paying off."

"The conditioning is one thing," said McMillan. "But the big thing is mental. We go out there knowing we're going to run for 48 minutes. It's a positive thing. We're oriented to running and doing what we have to and the rest more or less comes easy."

"It's like we put a large sum of money in the bank when the season started. Now all we're doing is drawing out the interest," said quick-handed guard Goodrich.

But now that one-third of the season has been played, Sharman says the extra workouts will taper off. "From now on it's a matter of each player watching his diet, getting plenty of sleep and keeping ready mentally," said Sharman. "They're in good shape and I don't want to overdo it."

Pat Riley, the reserve who plays both guard and forward, once played for a San Diego Rocket club which set an NBA record of 17 straight defeats. Asked the difference, Riley said:

"Mostly, it's mental. When you lose that many in a row, you come into the arena knowing you're going to lose a ball game. The way this team is, we come in knowing we are going to win."

Wrestlers dominate Iowa Invitational

by Ernie Schwelt
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There must be something about an invitational meet that the SIU wrestling team likes.

For the second straight weekend the SIU wrestling team dominated an invitational meet, this time it was the University of Iowa Invitational.

Linn Long's Salukis captured four first places, and three seconds during the all-day affair, and if a team crown had been awarded, it would have belonged to Southern.

The same case held true last weekend at the Illinois Invitational where Southern captured three first and three seconds. Closest team to that mark was Northwestern.

"I'll say this much," said Long, "the people who came out to the invitational, left knowing we participated."

Participation is an understatement. A better word is dominate. Seven SIU wrestlers wearing made it to the finals.

Perhaps one of the oddest match-ups occurred at 134 pounds where two Saluki wrestlers, Jim Cook and Steve Jones, squared off in the championships.

The two had faced each other in ranking matches and, according to Long, this match was a "real dagger." With Jones leading by a point with a minute left, he took a quick glance at the clock.

Cook took the opportunity to shoot in and score a take down to win the match, 6-5.

Cook and Jones were facing each other because in the Iowa Invitational, participating schools were allowed to enter more than one wrestler per weight class.

There was also good news coming out of the 126-division where Ken Gerdes bounced back from his poor showing last weekend at Champaign to win his weight class crown. Last week Gerdes was eliminated in the quarterfinals by SIU-Edwardsville's Jammie Gitcho.

This week there was nothing of the sort as Gerdes took on the best Iowa had to offer in the person of Russ Winegardner. Gerdes took the crown with a pin at 5:12.

According to Long, "the score was one sided when Kenny stuck it to him."

"Last week left a bad taste in his mouth," Long continued, "this weekend his technique was better."

The final two SIU champs were Vance Testone at 142 and Dan Stumpf at 158. Testone had an easy 11-5 win over Dave Pike from Northern Iowa while Stumpf beat Mike Meador, also of Northern Iowa 11-1.

Overall, Long said he was pleased with the wrestlers' performance. "The thing about it is that they wrestled well, but dad gum it, it's like this. Mark Samuels gets beat in the first round and when the dust clears" the kid from Blackhawk (College) who Mark beat last week is in the finals."

That kid Long is referring to was Pat Cavanaugh who later lost to Less Simpson of Northern Iowa Community College in the finals.

"I can see where it could have been an all SIU finals round," said Long.

That would have been nice, but you won't hear too many complaints coming out of the wrestling program. Especially after the last two weekends.

Salukis swam fast, set records

by Ernie Schwelt
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"It all comes down to this," said SIU swimming coach Ray Essick, "they beat us where they were supposed to and in the races that could have gone either way, they won."

The "they" Essick is referring to is the University of Michigan swimming team that handed the Salukis a sound 75-36 whipping Friday night in Ann Arbor.

It was Southern's first dual meet action of the season and a contest that the SIU swimmers had their eyes on since the first day of practice.

One of those races that "could have gone either way" was the 100-yard freestyle with Michigan's Ray McCullough beating SIU's Bob McGinley by a mere twelve hundredths of a second.

McGinley didn't even finish second in that race for sandwiched in between the two was Jane Aranha of Michigan with a clocking of 48.53 seconds.

Earlier in the 200-yard freestyle, McGinley set a new SIU mark with a time of 1:44.6. The clocking was also good enough to qualify him for the NCAA meet in March.

Bill Trugley also made qualifying standards for the national meet by finishing second in the 200 with a 1:45.1 clocking.

Freshman Pat Miles from Little Rock, Ark., turned in a spectacular performance, swimming in three events, winning two finishing second in the other while setting meet records and qualifying for the nationals.

In the second event of the evening, the 1,000-yard freestyle, Miles was clocked in 9:59.5 which set a new meet and freshman record. The old mark belonged to Dale Kerner. Seven events later, Miles finished third in the 200-yard backstroke in 1:59.9 which qualified him for the nationals.

To top it all, in the very next event, Miles came on in the last length of the 500-yard freestyle to beat Michigan's Mark Anderson and set a new meet record.

"We swam the best early season dual meet ever," noted Essick, "all the kids swam faster this time than at the same time last year."

But even with the best times, Miles' performance and all the NCAA qualifying times, the Wolverines proved too much for Southern Illinois.

"Of course we were all very disappointed," continued the Saluki coach, "but the meet did one thing for us and that was to give purpose to our fall workout program. I think we will be better off for it."

And for the swimmers, that fall workout program and it's benefits should show up later in the season in the form of being in better condition when the NCAA's come around, not to mention the Olympic Games in Munich this summer.

Mini gymnastics squad wins nine awards in Iowa

Strong individual performances accented the SIU gymnastics team's showing at the Iowa Invitational over the weekend, but a lack of depth prevented the squad from placing high in the final team standings.

The SIU "mini-squad" of six men—Tim Lindner, Gary Morava, Dave Oliphant, Steve Kuke, Jack Willard and Ron Rebmam won nine individual awards.

Morava led the SIU pack as he collected five medals. In placing third in the all-around category, he finished in the top spot on the horizontal bar, third on parallel bars, fourth in vaulting and fifth in floor exercise.

Lindner nosed out his teammate Morava on the all-around by placing second in that event. Other high individual places for the Milwaukee senior were thirds on the horizontal bar and free exercise.

Dave Oliphant rounded out the scoring for the team by recording a fifth place on the pommel horse

Second-place Squids win two more

The Southern Illinois Wheelchair basketball Squids collected two more wins over the weekend, vaulting into second place in the Midwest Conference with a 3-1 record.

Led by Ray Clark, the Squids bumped off the Cardinals City Pioneers, 43-32, and 47-32.

Clark, Ron Berringer and Mike Kaminski each scored 10 points in the first victory. Clark had 15 in the second win.

The Squids' next game is Jan. 9 in Carbondale against the Champaign Black Knights, leaders in the Midwest Conference.

Salukis pull out 93-92 decision over Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Who says the Southwest Conference can't hold its own in big-time basketball?

For the better part of 40 minutes here Saturday night, that league's Arkansas Razorbacks gave Southern Illinois its. The visiting Salukis were 10 points down with six minutes remaining but bounced back for a 93-92 squeaker win.

Arkansas surged from deficits once in each half to take seven and 10 point advantages. And the hostiles just missed overhauling SIU again at the buzzer.

Southern Illinois' fourth victory against no losses seemed safely tucked away with 26 seconds left and Arkansas trailing, 93-88.

But Vernon Murphy tipped in a missed field goal attempt at the 16 second mark, cutting Southern's lead to 93-90. Then the Razorbacks stole the ball and made it a one point game with three seconds to play.

SIU never inbounded the ball after Jody Bass' 10-foot jumper which finished all scoring.

Arkansas is now 2-3. The Razorbacks' losses have been by a total of eight points. Included is a one-point defeat at the University of Missouri.

Southern Illinois did the Razorbacks in at the free throw line. The visitors connected on 29 of 32 charity attempts.

And it was John "Mouse" Garrett's two free throws with 26 seconds remaining that provided the final winning margin.

Five Salukis were perfect from the line. Don Portugal picked up 11 of his 23 points on free throws and "Mouse" Garrett was seven-for-seven.

Southern's comeback victory, secured by Garrett's charity shots, began after the Razorbacks mounted an 81-71 lead with 5:48 left and threatened to blow the visitors out before a packed house of 5,000.

Portugal made a one-man show of bringing the Salukis within three points, 83-79, with a little more than three minutes remaining. He was perfect on three layups and two free throws while Arkansas managed just a charity shot.

Martin Terry recorded that lone point after the fourth of Portugal's five fouls and broke an Arkansas school record with 40 points.

Field goals by Garrett, Nate Hawthorne and Eddie James put SIU out front to stay and made the score Salukis 85, Arkansas 82.

Arkansas then outscored SIU 10 to eight in the final three minutes but fell one point short.

Southern Illinois carried a 50-47 lead into halftime and had opened quickly. The visitors had a 16-9 margin with Greg Starrick owning 12 points before the game was six minutes old. He finished with 24. Arkansas tied the score four times, the final being 29-41, before hitting a scoring binge.

After a Stan Powles free throw, made it 30-29 Salukis, the Razorbacks scored eight straight for their largest first half margin.

Southern put its offense back in motion but Arkansas managed to stay above water until John Marker tied the game at 42-42 with a pair of charity shots.

Byron Tolson retaliated with a field goal but "Mouse" Garrett poured through two more free throws and it was tied again, 44-44.

SIU's Portugal fouled Terry who converted on two charity attempts. That gave the Razorbacks their eighth two-point lead of the half, 46-44.

Southern Illinois had another hot night from the field, shooting 57.1 per cent. But the Salukis were tremendously outrebounced, 44-27. Bill Perkins, 6-11, and Stan Powles, 6-9, had just two rebounds apiece. Nate Hawthorne led with six.

Trackmen get two seconds

Long-jumping Brown sets record

By Ken Stewart
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU indoor track team missed two first places in the Northeast Louisiana Invitational by less than the blink of an eye Saturday, prompting coach Lew Hartzog to say, "We're too impatient with second places, we don't like them."

It's the type of winning attitude Hartzog has drilled into his team as it approaches a "tougher than expected" upcoming season.

With the attitude Hartzog has attained, it's no wonder freshman Bill Hancock set a school fresh indoor record by making the long jump in 6-10, beating the old mark set by Mike Bernard at 6-9.

"This is excellent for the first meet of the year," said Hartzog. Hancock won the Illinois state prep crown in long jumping with a 6-9½ effort last season.

Although Hartzog expressed disappointment over the near misses of two first places, he was openly pleased with the effort exhibited at the meet in Monroe, La. against some of the top track schools in the South.

"I'm real pleased," he said. "They did an outstanding job and we know the rest of the team will come on and join them."

The first close shave at the meet was Ivory Crockett's six-flat clocking in the 60-yard dash, just missing first place by a nose's hair to Tom Whatley of Alabama, who was clocked in the same time. Crockett also ran six flat in the two qualifying races.

Freshman Gerald Smith came in at 6.2 seconds which Hartzog called a "good job for the first meet of the year."

Hartzog's winning attitude also showed up in the 60 when Eddie Sutton pulled a leg muscle in the middle of the race. But the muscular Miami native

On the move

One of SIU's big little men—John "Mouse" Garrett—tries to get past a Sul Ross Lobo in a recent Arena basketball game. Garrett was instrumental in pulling out the Saluki's 93-92 win over the Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday night. SIU now has a 4-0 record going into a game at Wichita State this weekend.

kept on pushing and also finished the race with a 6.2 clocking.

Hartzog praised Sutton for holding his own despite the pulled muscle and added that he thinks Sutton will be over the injury before the end of the holidays.

"He has to work hard enough to get himself up and going again," said the coach about Sutton's recovery. "And when he does come back, Eddie is the type of athlete who will come out a little tougher next time out."

The injury forced Sutton out of the mile relay and Hartzog put freshman Ed Wardzala in his place.

The mile relay was the other event that the Salukis missed by a shave, probably because they really missed the speed of Sutton.

The Crockett-Smith, Wardzala and Terry Erickson team finished second with a 3:21.4 clocking, one second off of Louisiana State's winning time.

Brockington uses Bears to get 1,000-yard mark

GREEN BAY (AP) — It wasn't one of the better games for Green Bay Packers running back John Brockington, but his performance against the Chicago Bears Sunday placed him in select company.

His 63 yards rushing in 26 carries gave him 1,032 yards for the season and made him one of four rookies in National Football League history to crack the 1,000-yard mark.

The big moment came on a six-yard burst up the middle, the first play of the second half. Brockington went into the game 32 yards shy of 1,000, and he ran for 29 in the first half.

"I was trying not to think about it,"

Erickson's leg of the mile relay—440 yards, his specialty—was run in 48.3 seconds. Hartzog said this was a very good time for the University of Northeast Louisiana fieldhouse's tight backboard track.

In other events, Bernard finished fifth in the long jump with an effort of 6-4. He tied with three other jumpers but finished higher because of fewer misses.

He was bettered by his teammate Hancock. Bernard had cleared 6-10 earlier, however it did not count.

Ron Frye placed fifth in the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.5 and teammate Lonnie Brown, a freshman, did not place with his 7.8.

Brown also qualified in the long jump with a 22-10 effort but didn't make the finals. Jim Harris tried to jump with an injury and got as far as 22-3.

said Brockington, "but the minute I made that run, the crowd reacted and I knew I had gone over it."

On the next play, the rookie scored on another six-yard run giving the Packers the lead which they never relinquished, winning 31-10.

With all the glory of his accomplishment, Brockington admitted that the Bears had stopped much of his running thrust. When the two teams met Nov. 7 the rookie had his second best day of the season, grinding out 149 yards on 25 carries.

Brockington has averaged about 79.3 yards per game in the Packers' first 13 contests.
